Program:

The issues of identity and belonging can be challenging and complex, especially for those people who identify with intersections such as race, gender, sexuality, socioeconomic status and religion. This seminar will explore these important themes for culturally and linguistically diverse infants, children, young people and families, and profile practical strategies, resources and services to enhance their sense of inclusion and connection.

Speakers:

- Hamza Vayani: Statewide Perinatal and Infant Mental Health Consumer and Carer Coordinator, Queensland Centre for Perinatal and Infant Mental Health
- Ignacio Correa-Velez: Co-CEO of Queensland Program of Assistance to Survivors of Torture and Trauma; and Adjunct Professor, School of Public Health and Social Work, Queensland University of Technology
- Andres Otero-Ferero: Clinical Educator, Queensland Transcultural Mental Health Centre
